

Payment Gateways for Virtue Mart?

Posted by rob - 11 Jun 2009 06:12

I've not used Virtue Mart, but I'm familiar with similar shopping cart services. My question is what option do you recommend as a payment gateway? How do you process payments?

PayPal is an obvious choice, but some feel that it doesn't present a professional look. Do you agree?

Thanks, Piet!

=====

Payment Gateways for Virtue Mart?

Posted by joomtorial - 11 Jun 2009 12:33

Hi Rob,

Personally I must say that PayPal does the job for me. It is the payment gateway for this website and makes 100% automation possible. Good thing about working with PayPal is that the https secure part is dealt with my PayPal and the 7 years I receive/sent money with PayPal I have never had any issues.

Next to that, since 99% of my professional work is done on international level, and banking from say North America to Europe is not convenient at all, I prefer having my clients pay my invoices through PayPal as well!

I have created several web shops for clients and also used Credit Card payment gateways or as they call them, merchant providers. They ask a certain amount or an amount per purchase, next to that the credit card company wants some of your money too, since I am dealing with smaller payments, that is not profitable at all, but 100% possible in VirtueMart nonetheless.

=====